Shelby: Welcome to Two do the New. Part two of our two-part series of Two do the Boo. I'm Shelby Neal

Zach: and I'm Zach Salerno.

Shelby: This is the story of the frightful Halloween of Zach and I.

Shelby: So it was Halloween night...

Zach: We had to start it off strong so we decided to watch something scary to set the spooky mood

Shelby: Normally, it takes us about an hour to find the perfect movie but for some reason tonight was different

Zach: Instantly we knew what to watch

Shelby: Saw; The perfect movie... just the right amount of blood, gore, and fright to kick off the night

Zach: Time went by insanely fast and by the end of the movie it was already dark outside

Shelby: We ran down stairs oblivious to the fact that all of the trick or treaters had been out for about an hour already

Zach: We knew we didn't want to head out on an empty stomach

Shelby: So for dinner we had bloody chili, cae"scare" salad, and human finger cupcakes

Zach: Trick or treaters consistently came to the door which urged our anticipation to get started

Shelby: It was super last minute so I ended up being a witch

Zach: And I was a Jimmy Johns employee even though I was originally supposed to be a DEA agent but we gave up on trying to find all of the pieces of that costume

Shelby: It was time... The moment had come... Trick or treating

Zach: We took a couple of steps outside ready to go... but it was freezing

Shelby: It definitely would have been the move to have checked the weather so we went back inside and bundled up

Zach: It was time... again... but then things went wrong. The recorder froze and we were stuck

Shelby: After 30 minutes of trying to fix it we gave up, but we weren't going to let that ruin our night

Zach: Trick or Treating was a key event that we had set in our minds so...

Shelby: It was time... for the final time... we were going out and getting as much candy as we could

Zach: Strange looks from all of my neighbors

Shelby: Was repeated at least a million times. Clearly it was seen as abnormal that two teenagers would be walking around all dressed up for Halloween but we didn't care

Zach: I was honestly so distracted by all of the candy and that I was trick or treating with my best friend that I didn't even acknowledge that it was weird to some people

Shelby: On the other hand, there were so many people that thought it was adorable and hilarious that we'd be out doing this activity made for younger kids

Zach: The funniest part was definitely when this older couple that went as two ducks were trick or treating without any little kids.

Shelby: This completely proved our point that anyone can go trick or treating and have a good time no matter how young or old

Zach: After being out for around an hour we went back to my house to look through all of our candy we collected.

Shelby: A huge tradition in my family is getting all your candy together into ginormous piles and trading for the ones you want

Zach: Surprisingly this simple activity was the best part of the night

Shelby: It's always fun to get the candies that you want and this way there's no way that you won't

Zach: The only issue with this is that Shelby and I tend to like most of the same things so we both wanted the same candies

Shelby: Because I end up getting what I want 98% of the time I got most of the good candies

Zach: After trading candy we pretty much just sat around eating candy until we got sick

Shelby: Totally worth it though

Zach: Through this chaotic experience we learned so much

Shelby: One. That we should always buy extra candy that we both like so that no one is forced to share

Zach: Two. That we should always bring another recorder just in case the first one stops working

Shelby: And three. Halloween can be fun for everyone

Zach: Trick or treating doesn't just have to be for kids because who doesn't want candy

Shelby: And if you're with fun people then it makes the experience 30 times better

Zach: Starting your own new traditions makes the whole fiasco worth it

Shelby: Which is why Zach and I are definitely going Trick or Treating next year.
